

Reciprocal Deposits for Bank-Affiliated Trust Companies

With a responsibility to preserve capital while boosting operational efficiency, trust companies must strike a balance between earning customer confidence while ensuring access to liquidity under a range of economic conditions. Reciprocal deposit programs help trust companies achieve these targets within a structure designed for simplicity and flexibility.

Meeting Modern Trust Company Challenges

Trust companies are navigating an increasingly complex cash management landscape marked by:

- Elevated customer sensitivity to uninsured cash balances
- Larger account balances exceeding current FDIC deposit insurance limits
- The need for daily liquidity without NAV volatility

The Demand Deposit Marketplace® \(DDM®\) program is purpose-built to help trust companies address these challenges through a flexible, institutionally-supported reciprocal deposit solution.

How Reciprocal Deposits Work

Through R&T's trusted deposit network:

- Customer funds are allocated in increments of up to $250,000 per TIN per receiving institution<sup>1</sup>
- Deposits can be reciprocated dollar-for-dollar within the network, or more or less, depending on the affiliated bank's needs
- Trust companies can provide access to expanded FDIC deposit insurance coverage for their customers while preserving liquidity<sup>2</sup>

1 Under the DDM program, your institution may be permitted to allocate your customers' funds to participating receiving institutions in increments of up to $250K per customer identifier (e.g., TIN), per account ownership category, per receiving institution, subject to approval and relevant agreements with R&T.

2 Under the DDM program, funds are deposited into demand deposit accounts (DDAs) or money market deposit accounts (MMDAs) at receiving banks or share draft accounts or share accounts at receiving credit unions. While your customers' funds are held in MMDAs or share accounts, the return of your customers' funds from the DDM program may be delayed as, under federal regulations, the receiving institution is permitted to impose a delay of up to seven days on any withdrawal request from an MMDA or share account.

3 While interest rates obtained on funds placed at receiving institutions under the DDM program may, under certain circumstances, outperform cash alternatives, such as money market funds, the primary objective of the DDM program is to provide customers with convenient access to expanded deposit insurance coverage on their funds (and not for investment enhancements or higher rates of returns or profits).
